

Build Your Future

Pathway opportunities for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students including apprenticeships, traineeships and work experience.

About the First Nations Engagement in School Infrastructure (FNESI) program

The FNESI program is about increasing the involvement of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander businesses, people and communities in School Infrastructure projects and maintenance services.

Our team also focuses on strengthening Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander participation in the workforce. Through our network of contractors, we create culturally safe connections between young people and real pathway opportunities in the trades.

We work alongside young Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people and schools to support entry into the building and construction industry whether you're exploring your options or ready to start your career journey.

How it works

-  register your interest with FNESI
-  we learn about your goals and career interests
-  we connect you with trusted contractors and employers
-  we facilitate culturally safe introductions to pathway opportunities

Opportunities may include

-  work experience placements
-  career exposure opportunities
-  apprenticeships
-  traineeships
-  school based apprenticeships and traineeships (SBAT)

Who can apply

Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students interested in exploring a career in the building and construction industry.

Our commitment

FNESI is committed to creating culturally safe workforce opportunities that support skills development, employment pathways and long-term participation in trades.
